SCHOOL CLIMATE FACTORS 2009

Each school year, the School Climate Survey is administered to gather information on the perceptions that students, their parents, and school staffs hold concerning their schools and their performance. In 2008-2009, the survey was distributed to approximately 90,200 parents, 54,200 elementary, secondary, and adult students, and 25,000 staff. Individual school reports detailing the percentage of respondents marking each of the response categories (from Strongly Agree to Strongly Disagree) for each survey item have been provided to every school and are available on the Department of Research Services website: <http://drs.dadeschools.net>. In addition to providing information to the public, survey results are intended to assist schools in the identification of priorities for their annual School Improvement Plans, and to track trends for the Districtwide Scorecards.

This year, in an effort to make the data more readily accessible to district administrators, the Department of Research Services is providing this special School Climate Factors report. A factor analysis was performed on each of the survey form types (Staff, Student, and Parent) separately. Examining the correlations among the survey items revealed that there was significant overlap among various subgroups of items—questions about school administrators tended to correlate with each other, questions about safety issues correlated with each other, and so on. The statistical procedure objectively revealed the number and composition of the underlying factors for each survey. It was then possible to combine the scores from the common items into summary factor scores. To best understand what the factors represent conceptually, one need only refer to the items that were combined to produce the factor scores which are presented in tables at the end of the report.

All of the items that were worded in a negative way were reversed, so the response scale can be considered running from Strongly Positive to Strongly Negative. The items within any factor were averaged and the average was then represented by colored dot icons using the following legend.

	From Positive to Strongly Positive
	From Neutral to Positive
	From Negative to Neutral
	From Strongly Negative to Negative

In general, the green and yellow icons may be interpreted as areas in which the schools are functioning acceptably—red and black icons indicate areas of special concern. Using this presentation system it is easy to scan the results for exceptional positive or negative response patterns by survey factor and by school.
